Conducting an “Ovid Full-text Only” Type Search

1. Go to the library website at www.mckendree.edu/library

2. Click on the “Find” icon.
3. Click on the “Journals & Articles” icon.

4. Here you have a choice of three (3) options. The second option is to use the A-Z List search. Clicking the “A-Z List” link will take you to an alphabetical listing of all of the databases to which Holman Library subscribes.
5. Find the Ovid link and click on it.

6. This will take you to the Ovid search interface page. This page automatically defaults to a page that allow you to search databases with both abstracts only and full-text articles. Notice that the page has one (1) resource selected, which is the “Journal Abstracts and Table of Contents” resource.

Created 1/18/2013
8. To limit your search results to full-text only articles, click on the “Change” link.

9. Then click on the “McKendree Full Text Journals@Ovid” link. This will limit your search results to full-text articles within the Ovid Journal Collection. There is no need to check the box next to the link, unless you want to search more than one collection at a time.
10. Notice, the page now indicates that the resource you are searching is the “McKendree Full Text Journals@Ovid. You may now begin your search for full-text articles.

11. Please contact the Research Services Department by email at lffrancis@mckendree.edu or by phone at 618.537.6952 if you need any assistance.
