

Preparing for Model United Nations

The McKendree University Model United Nations Spring 2013 Conference began on Tuesday, April 9 at 6 PM. Many intelligent high school students look forward to this exciting event. They gathered in various sections of McKendree University to discuss pressing real-world issues. As an International Press delegate, I was given the opportunity to ask a few delegates about what they had been doing to prepare for this event.

Triad High School has been very successful at this event in previous years. After speaking with a few of the delegates, they informed me that they have been practicing for this conference since January and they actually have a Model UN class for homeroom each day. They use current event issues and look at them through the eyes of the committee.

To make this conference successful, organizers of the event, advisors and delegates all put in a lot of work. Each participant plays an integral part in making this event happen. I look forward to seeing what these future world-changers accomplish.
