

Creative Writing

Division of Humanities

- Minor: 19 credit hours
- Minor GPA required for graduation: 2.25

Description of Minor: The creative writing minor benefits students who wish to develop their voices as writers of poetry and/or fiction. Students pursuing a creative writing minor will undertake intensive study of the forms and techniques of writing genres, emerging as writers of poetry or fiction that shows increasing originality, interest, technique, and confidence. Through their coursework, students will gain a greater understanding of the literary history and practices of poetry and fiction, while also learning to develop their own distinct writer's voice and building strengths in writing, editing, revising, and sensitivity to language. Coursework in the minor includes a study of the work of major writers of poetry and fiction; classes focusing on discussion, development, and improvement of student-written work; and classes that develop an understanding of the forms and history of language, the writer's medium. Students are given opportunities to practice literary editing through opportunities to participate in the campus student literary magazine, Montage.

Students pursuing a creative writing minor must complete a senior thesis containing a substantial, polished sample of their poetry or fiction. While particularly beneficial to those who wish to pursue a creative writing career, the minor promotes skills valuable in a variety of fields, including the fine arts, teaching, publishing, communications, and law.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students will:

- Produce an original body of writing in poetry, fiction, or both.
- Understand the aesthetic standards by which poetry and fiction are read, written, and evaluated.
- Understand the relation of aesthetic form to content.
- Read a wide variety of writers and styles within creative writing genres.
- Enhance their sensitivity to language.
- Develop skills in oral and written communication.
