EDU 580 - iPad for Educators

McKendree University is offering an eight week special topics class at the request of educators throughout the southwest region of Illinois. This three hour graduate level course, iPad for Educators, provides the classroom teacher the opportunity to enhance his/her skills as the need for understanding the iPad enters the classroom environment.

The iPad for Educators course introduces participants to instructional methods for using the Apple iPad effectively in their classrooms. The iPad is a highly effective tool that offers many resources to help educators plan, develop, and teach dynamic, technology-enhanced lessons. When partnered with good instructional design, educators can create lessons that are cutting-edge, highly motivating, mentally engaging, and effective.

In this course, educators will determine the essential components of technology-integrated instruction and then design and create iPad-enhanced lessons and web-based learning objectives. As participants create lessons, they will identify the key principles to develop high quality iPad-integrated curriculum that can be used in their professional context.

Participants in this course will also explore the concept of The Flipped Classroom. The flipped classroom is a teaching and learning strategy in which students experience lecture and direct instruction online prior to covering the topics in class, so more class time can be devoted to practical, hands-on activities and lessons with real-world applications.

Tuition is $350 per credit hour
