1 Conscious China and the United States trade war harshly impacts South Korea. Those places 2 combined make up for 36.7% of their exports, and

3
4 Anxious in finding another way to get money, they turn to Japan. South Korea has now 5 jeopardized their relationship with Japan by asking for compensation dating back to 6 seventy-four years ago and

7
8 Noting with grave concern Japan has responded by limiting their exports of semiconductors 9 and chemicals. This way, South Korea can not get these items which are necessary for their 10 economy and

11
12 Taking into account that South Korea would have to then turn to either the United States for 13 the products or China. South Korea would possibly end up angering either the United States 14 or China based on who they buy from.

16 1. Realizing that South Korea is being indirectly attacked by the United States and 17 China's trade war. They made a poor decision with possibly annihilating their trade 18 connections with Japan and 19
20 2. Suggests the possibility of making amends with Japan. South Korea could even come 21 back to the issue of their expected compensation at a later date. They should just 22 make sure that their other two main exports aren't in the middle of a trade war and 23
24 3. Emphasizing their need to make amends with Japan. The benefits would be exactly 25 what South Korea needs at this moment, which is to still export with their other 26 countries.
