

Cheerful Atmosphere Serves Committee Well

By: Economic and Social
Press Reporter

Right before lunch break, the delegation passed the resolution that occupied the entire morning. An amendment implementing micro-loans was passed and added to the resolution. Having met the deadline for tomorrow's Plenary Session, the atmosphere was cheerier, but productivity remained a goal for the committee.

The delegation moved on to the final topic: Financial Impact of Global Identity Theft. The first resolution brought to attention was ECOSOC/1/6. Many delegates agreed on the strength of the resolution, but an equal number of people found defects. The debate that resulted was quick-witted and articulate. The Economic and Social committee continued to move forward as a successful day comes to a close.