Reminding all nations that we are very far from achieving Sustainable Development goal 1, and that we must continue to work towards that goal of eliminating poverty so that it's not only achieved in not just first world but also third world countries,

Empathizing that all nations should work to help other more impoverished nations that are not close to achieving Sustainable Development goal 1,

Noting that only a limited number of nations have achieved their goals for Sustainable Development Goal 1, and that other nations should follow their examples,

Stresses that poverty, of course, is a serious issue that should be worked towards fixing,

Urges more developed nations that up to 10 percent of all nations are impoverished, and need major amounts of aid if they wish to become first world nations that are good members of the world community,

Noting with great concern that ever since the Covid 19 Pandemic, nations have either stalled our greatly increased in their poverty numbers instead of combating them,

1.) Invites more developed nations that have achieved their goals already, to help other nations that still struggle with this goal so that global poverty can be eradicated.

2.) Suggests that able nations come together to form a joint U.N. fund to help impoverished nations. As of now it will take 5-7 Trillion dollars annually to achieve all of the SDG's but we have only raised 380 million since 2018. This 380 million has had a return of almost 800 million

EMPHASIZING the fact that, to obtain sustainable development, actions must be made by more developed countries to improve high poverty rates around the world, and

STRESSING that to lower these poverty rates, an effort must be made by more developed countries to share a percentage of their income towards infrastructure in less developed countries to boost job opportunities; alternatively, an effort may be made by more mature countries to develop a trade relationship with these poorer countries to help their economy or even contribute to a donation made of surpluses of food, money, or the manufacturing of other products that would be used to help poorer countries in any way, and

FULLY ACKNOWLEDGING the effort already put forth by these more mature countries, and the focus they have on their own economy, as well as the acknowledgment of the low success rates on anti-poverty programs in the past, but also

NOTING WITH DEEP CONCERN the contributions the more developed countries have to climate change, is directly damaging the pathway to lower poverty rates, due to its harder impact to the less developed countries, and

EMPHASIZING FURTHER that if actions are put in place to reduce poverty rates around the world, not only do so many lives improve, but also the future economy of the world;

1. STRESSES the importance of richer countries sharing wealth to poorer countries;
2. PROMOTES the removal of trade barriers between countries in need of more trade relations for their economy;
3. IMPLORES cooperation from more developed countries to aid less fortunate countries with any donations possible;
4. ENCOURAGES STRONGLY that developed countries continue their efforts towards lowering poverty rates, but furthermore inspire other countries to get involved;
5. SUGGESTS that the United Nations sanction mandatory assessed contributions from more developed countries to less developed countries, so the current issue of poverty affecting sustainable development can improve.

EMPHASIZING that the efforts made by the UN already like the Income Support Program that transfers financial lifelines to families in poverty is really helping our goal for a 100% poverty free world and,

ENCOURAGED the other countries to fight the roots of poverty by choosing peace instead of war and helping underdeveloped countries because the countries with the most poverty are those underdeveloped countries and,

Realizing that the UN needs to invest in "human centric" development, which includes focusing on good education social inclusion and economic empowerment and,

Expressing Deep Concern for the UN to understand that countries in poverty are more likely to start conflicts and,

1. Believing that the UN can stop this if we have education for all because you need and education to get a good job and,
2. Having decided that another solution could be found if we empower women because greater gender equality allows for more economic growth and,
3. Confident that if we have targeted aid, we can stop poverty because AI can be used to identify places that could be vulnerable and this way they can get help and,
4. Recommend that the UN use these suggestions to help stop poverty in the world and bring Sustainable Development Goal 1 and make it a reality.

5 EMPHASIZING the urgent need for accountability and transparency in the permanent fives'
6 power to veto, it must be constrained in order to create a balance between small and large
7 states, while also not giving the power to veto to new permanent seats in order to keep 8 smaller states from being marginalised, and 9

10 DEEPLY CONCERNED about the effects of the working methods and composition of the 11 Security Council, that adding seats alone onto the current Security Council is insufficient 12 unless operations these working methods evolve, and 13

14 ACKNOWLEDGING the previous efforts by the intergovernmental negotiations, although 15 not final Charter amendments, has made much work towards oral and non binding decisions, 16 and

18 GUIDED BY the principles of the United Nations Charter, in peace and security through
19 collective action, the Security Council reform is to make it more representative and effective
20 in maintaining peace, that will then lead to a strengthening in multilateralism;
21

- 22 1) DECLARES the importance of reform for when the veto power is used, the reasoning
23 for the veto will be brought up to the General Assembly, where they should have an 24 opportunity to meet and express view;
25
- 26 2) ENCOURAGES the development of sovereign equality, to allow every state no matter
27 the size, to have equal voice in international decision making, as rule based orders
28 only work if sovereign equality is respected;
29
- 30 3) RECOMMENDS the creation of additional non permanent seats, that would be 31 specifically designed for the addition of smaller states, that would also allow the 32 balance between large and small states when it comes to discussions about current 33 geopolitical topics;
34
- 35 4) URGES immediate action to several key areas of the Security Council, the power to 36 veto must be constrained immediately, emphasizes the multilateral system needs

1 ANALYZE the fact that the Security Council hasn't been reformed or changed in ANY way
2 since 1965, and it imposes unfair sanctions on smaller countries.

3
4 CALL UPON the fact that the Security Council struggles to get work done due to the 5 VETO, leading to more divisions and disagreement between participating countries.

6
7 REFLECT on the issue that the ability of the P5 to VETO simply isn't sufficient. For example.
8 Due to the P5 consisting of disagreeing countries such as China and the U.S., resolutions related
9 to the Ukraine Conflict or the Gaza Strip don't get passed, leading to unnecessary casualties
10 every day.

11
12 IDENTIFY the fact that the United States has proposed sanction after sanction targeting 13 banks and other financial institutions in Iran; this tactic could also be used against other
14 countries the US considers "Threats".

15
